

Paws for Thought Behavior Training and the E-Collar.

I have the tool to successfully train your dog's behavior. I have the ability to give every dog a fair shot at a happy life. I have the ability to give you and your family the opportunity to enjoy your dog to the fullest.

Let's state the obvious... We do not live in prehistoric times... We no longer live to hunt, hunt to kill and kill to eat. We have evolved into rational human beings (most of us at least) with compassion, values and common sense. We converse with others in order to reach understandings... we are civilized human beings. Dogs, on the other hand, do not.

Humans as well as dogs have the capacity to change their conduct, mind set, etc. as a result of external and/or biological factors. With humans, however, we abide by a "civilized" set of values and can control these behaviors. Dogs cannot.

Though domesticated over many centuries, dogs were initially bred (with some exceptions of course) for some sort of work function including hunting and killing. These traits are still hard-wired into their behaviors and we must understand this in order to better teach, train and live alongside them and them alongside us!

By knowing a dog's true nature and tolerance levels, we know what is effective and/or humane in the proper training of the animal. For instance, the indispensable E-COLLAR, which stimulates via vibration. The E-Collar is NOT a shock collar!!! The E-Collar has helped to save the lives of countless dogs and it is imperative to state what this collar is and is not. It is a training tool for mild, moderate and aggressively behaved dogs. It is not a tool of torture or punishment.

The truth is that too many dogs have been put up for adoption and ultimately put-down because of their owner's inability to find a suitable solution to their dog's behavioral problems. With expert, specialized dog behavior training enhanced with the use of the E-collar, an owner can effectively train their dog to become an integral, serene and enjoyable part of their family.

Do not give up on your dog! Do not sacrifice his life! I can help to guide your dog in the proper direction and always keep this in mind: a suitable dog behaviorist will admit to you as a client when and if their professional limitations have been reached and should refer you to a trainer who can be of assistance to your situation. Never forget... there is always hope... and happiness.
